

A New Way to Live.

Imagine a place where each person lives the way he or she wants. Where people know one another on a personal level and become part of the family. The Green House Homes feature a new way to care. They're places that look and feel like real homes, where people live at their own pace on their own schedule.

Your Life. Your Decisions.

Elders who live in Green House Homes are able to make choices. With each day, new opportunities for growth are available. Residents can eat, sleep and participate in activities as they please. The possibilities are endless.

A Real Home. Clark-Lindsey's

Green House Homes are designed to look and feel like real homes, making them the preferred places to be. With only twelve residents in each home, care is flexible and focused on the individual's needs and wants.

Its warm environment, where deep knowing relationships are foundational, make daily interactions even richer. Residents have the comfort of private rooms they can decorate with their own furniture. The family atmosphere offers spaces to socialize and eat home-cooked meals at times the residents decide is best for them. At Clark-Lindsey's Green House Homes, residents are the stars of the show. Discover the difference between just having health care and living your best life.

Peaceful Comfort.

A Meaningful Life.

Life is about connections: connecting to family and friends, to a story, to a song. At Clark-Lindsey, we strive to foster the unique characteristics and desires of our residents. The residents are encouraged to be themselves, to participate in activities that are fulfilling and enjoyable. In Clark-Lindsey's Green House Homes, significant relationships and meaningful engagements are part of every day life. A deep knowing and connection between residents and staff members are central to Clark-Lindsey's core values.

A National Movement. The Green House Homes at Clark-Lindsey are part of the research driven Green House Project®. Pioneers in aging services, Clark-Lindsey is the first to bring Green House Homes to Illinois on private land. Not only are Green House Homes beautiful places to live, but the residents within them are proven to be happier and healthier. Research shows that Green House residents have four times more personal and social contact with staff members compared to residents of traditional nursing homes.

